Introductory advice and encouragement from the teacher/narrator and founder/developer of the Language Audio Book foreign language-learning series. (audio minutes 0:00 – 3:35)

Hi. My name is Mark Frobose, founder of languageaudiobooks.com.

Listen. I deeply care about you and your desire to learn a new language. I can assure you that Spanish for Love and Dating is the fastest and easiest way to learn romantic Spanish in the industry. And the challenging pace and friendly tone are designed to keep you constantly motivated and learning at optimal speed.

The Language Audio Books method will quickly teach you how to create your own original sentences in your new language, and use a system that's so easy that you automatically learn huge amounts of vocabulary and grammar without even knowing how it was done. And, you will retain more of what you learn with my periodic retrieval memory technique. Please remember this: Repetition is the mother of fluency.

All language audio books programs are designed to be used over and over, during your otherwise wasted waiting time. Here are a few tips to help you get the most out of your program:

Use it daily and follow the instructions.

Don't worry if it seems to go fast. You're not supposed to be able to understand every single sound the native speakers make at the beginning, nor will you be able to remember or pronounce everything perfectly at first. Remember, you have to crawl before you walk. But with Spanish for Love and Dating we get you speaking faster and having more fun in your new language than with any other method.

Allow yourself to be challenged. Stretch and move forward. You can do it!

Here's another tip: Make your waiting down-time into language up-time by using your program everywhere you go. Use it during your waiting periods, on your iPod, and in your car. Even five minutes practice while stuck in traffic, seven minutes waiting for a train, fifteen minutes in the waiting room of the dentist's office will reap huge benefits if you continue to practice.

Harness the power of your subconscious mind to learn your new language. Your new Spanish for Love and Dating program is unique in that it is designed to give you not just the best in conscious audio language instruction, but it also harnesses the incredible power of your subconscious mind to help you to learn a language without your even being aware of it.

This comprehensible language input that we all need in order to become proficient at speaking and understanding a new language is presented to you in the format of Audio Snapshots and other presentations in the program. For this reason be sure to listen closely when prompted to do so, always repeat when prompted, and always attempt to make your accent sound exactly like that of the native speakers.

And welcome mistakes and learn from them. In foreign language learning you literally fail your way to fluency, each time failing a little bit less and correcting your mistakes a little bit more until you are proficiently speaking in your new language.

At times when learning to speak your new language you might think your program goes too fast. Not true. Don't quit. Practice every day, even if it's just for a few minutes to keep the ball rolling. Keep listening, repeating, and remembering with your program every chance you get. And before you know it what used to be impossible for you to say or to understand becomes easy and a normal part of your daily routine if you just take daily action to achieve it.

And I know you will!

| Congrats! That was really good! Now, let's returnto our lesson.  |  |
| Lesson 1 - Section 5 (audio minutes 45:46 – 58:56)  |  |
| love   | el amor   |
| Love is blind.   | El amor es ciego.   |
| There are actually several ways to express the ideaof love in Spanish.  |  |
| One is the standard form which is the same verb as'to want' .....   | querer  |
| And then there's a deeper form of spiritual lovewhich is expressed by another verb, which is .....  | amar  |
| So if you were to say to someone in the familiar,standard way of saying 'I love you' it would be .....  | Te quiero.  |

|---|---|
| And if you really wanted to be a little bit more spiritual about it and love them from your soul you would say..... Great. And if you wanted to say, for example, 'I love my family' it would be the same as 'I want my family', but it literally means 'I love my family'. My family loves me. Okay. And now the standard way, the most common way, to say 'I love you' in Spanish in the familiar would be ..... And there are lots of songs in Spanish entitled, 'Te Quiero'. And if you want to say, 'I love you a lot' in the familiar, of course, you would say..... If you want to get deep about it, spiritual, once again you would say a different form which would be..... And, you know, we almost don't even have to say 'Te amo mucho' because 'Te amo' is almost like you're already up there, so why add to something that's already so intense. Now, if you were to ask someone if they love you, in the familiar, you would say..... Do you love me, or not? How would you say, 'We love each other' in the standard form? They love each other. I love him. (standard form) I love her. I love them. (masculine, plural) I love them. (feminine) I love everybody. | Te amo. Quiero a mi familia. Mi familia me quiere. Te quiero. Te quiero mucho. Te amo. ¿Me Quieres? ¿Me quieres, o no? Nos queremos. Se quieren. Lo quiero. La quiero. Los quiero. Las quiero. Quiero a todo el mundo. |
|---|---|

|   |                                      |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| Everybody loves me.   | Todo el mundo me quiere.             |
| That sounds slightly pretentious, but anyway, I think you get the idea.                             |                                      |
| How would you say .....   |                                      |
| a kiss  | un beso                              |
| And you're standing in front of a little baby and you want the baby to give you a little kiss. .... | un pico                              |
| a little kiss   | un besito                            |
| So you tell a little baby, 'Give me a little kiss'.   | Dame un besito.                      |
| Okay, and as we evolve here, how would we say .....   |                                      |
| a hug   | un abrazo                            |
| Hug me.   | Abrázame.                            |
| Give me a hug.  | Dame un abrazo.                      |
| Hug me.   | Abrázame.                            |
| a smile   | una sonrisa                          |
| Give me a smile.  | Dame una sonrisa.                    |
| There's a really cool verb in Spanish for 'to fall in love' .....                                   | enamorarse                           |
| I fall I love.  | Me enamoro.                          |
| I'm falling in love.  | Estoy enamorándome.                  |
| I fell in love.   | Me enamoré.                          |
| Okay, so how would you say .....  |                                      |
| I fell in love.   | Me enamoré.                          |
| I fell in love with a beautiful girl.   | Me enamoré con una muchacha hermosa. |
| I'm falling in love. Say,   |                                      |

|  |   |
|--|---|
| I'm falling in love.   | Me estoy enamorando / Estoy enamorándome. |
| 'I'm falling in love' option 1 and 2, please repeat.....   | Me estoy enamorando / Estoy enamorándome. |
| Now say .....  |   |
| I fell in love.  | Me enamoré.                               |
| Now, how would you say, in the masculine,I am in love.   | Estoy enamorado.                          |
| I'm in love. (feminine form)   | Estoy enamorada.                          |
| Now let's assume that cupid really hit you directly inthe heart with a good arrow, and .....   |   |
| I'm very much in love. (masculine)   | Estoy muy enamorado.                      |
| I'm really in love. (masculine)  | Estoy bien enamorado.                     |
| I'm really in love. (feminine)   | Estoy bien enamorada.                     |
| I'm very much in love. (feminine form)   | Estoy muy enamorada.                      |
| I'm falling in love with you.(And this obviously has to be in the familiar form.)  | Me estoy enamorando de ti.                |
| I'm falling in love with her.  | Me estoy enamorando de ella.              |
| I'm falling in love with him.  | Me estoy enamorando de él.                |
| They're falling in love.   | Se están enamorando.                      |
| They're in love.   | Están enamorados.                         |
| the lovers (physical)  | los amantes                               |
| And this kind of refers to physical lovers, which Iguess they all are. Or you could also say in a lessphysical way, 'the in-love ones', 'the ones who are inlove', 'the lovers', more spiritual than physical. | los enamorados                            |
| Now say .....  |   |
| You're handsome. (masculine familiar)  | Eres guapo.                               |
| You're beautiful. (feminine singular)  | Eres hermosa.                             |
| The road of love is seldom a smooth one. How would   |   |

| Lesson 2 - Section 3 (audio minutes 1:40:51 – 1:59:44)   |                           |
| He is married.  | Está casado.              |
| She is married.   | Está casada.              |
| the bride and the groom   | la novia y el novio       |
| the girlfriend  | la novia                  |
| the boyfriend   | el novio                  |
| the bride and the groom   | la novia y el novio       |

|  |                            |
|--|----------------------------|
| Or we could even bunch them together and say .....   | los novios                 |
| Curiously enough, 'novio' and 'novia' can mean 'boyfriend' and 'girlfriend' But it's not a frivolous relationship; 'el novio' would be a serious boyfriend and 'la novia' would be a serious girlfriend. | el noviola novia       |
| serious boyfriend  | el novio                   |
| serious girlfriend   | la novia                   |
| So you kind of have to use it in context to know what it really means.   |                            |
| Let's go negative for a moment and learn how to say .....  |                            |
| to get a divorce   | divorciarse                |
| He is divorced.  | Está divorciado.           |

| tonight  | esta noche                 |
| I have a date tonight.   | Tengo una cita esta noche. |
| to stand someone up (masculine)  | dejar plantado a alguien   |
| to stand someone up (feminine)   | dejar plantada a alguien   |
| Okay, a girl's talking and she says .....  |                            |
| He stood me up.  | Me dejó plantada.          |
| A guy's talking and he says .....  |                            |

|  |                                   |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| She stood me up.   | Me dejó plantado.                 |
| Okay, and the all-important verb for.....                              |                                   |
| to flirt   | coquetear                         |
| I am flirting.   | Estoy coqueteando                 |
| 'He is flirting' / 'She is flirting' is the same.                      |                                   |
| Listen and repeat .....  |                                   |
| He is flirting   | Está coqueteando                  |
| She is flirting  | Está coqueteando.                 |
| male flirt   | coqueto                           |
| female flirt   | coqueta                           |
| He is a flirt.   | Él es coqueto.                    |
| He is a big flirt.   | Él es muy coqueto.                |
| Here's one of my favorites: 'careful', literally 'eye' .....           |                                   |
| Careful!   | ¡Ojo!                             |
| Careful! She's a big flirt.  | ¡Ojo! Es muy coqueta.             |
| 'Careful' in this case literally means 'eye' as in e y e –lookout. |                                   |
| Lookout!   | ¡Ojo!                             |
| Lookout! He's a big flirt.   | ¡Ojo! Es muy coqueto.             |
| Now repeat these two side by side .....                                |                                   |
| He's a big flirt. / She's a big flirt. Say it now.                     | Es muy coqueto. / Es muy coqueta. |
| flirt (masculine)  | coqueto                           |
| flirt (feminine)   | coqueta                           |
| Now repeat these two side by side .....                                |                                   |

|  |  |

| Say, male flirt followed by female flirt   | coqueto / coqueta                        |
| He stood me up. (girl talking)   | Me dejó plantada.                        |
| She stood me up. (guy talking)   | Me dejó plantado.                        |
| I like to flirt.   | Me gusta coquetear.                      |
| to dance   | bailar                                   |
| I love to dance.   | Me encanta bailar.                       |
| Let's say a few Latin dances. Are you ready? .....   |  |
| I love to dance cumbia.  | Me encanta bailar cumbia.                |
| I love to dance merengue.  | Me encanta bailar merengue.              |
| I love to dance salsa.   | Me encanta bailar salsa.                 |
| to go out with friends.  | salir con amigos                         |
| I like to go out with friends.   | Me gusta salir con amigos.               |
| to have a drink (México)   | tomar una copa                           |
| to have a drink (shot of hard liquor)  | tomar un trago                           |
| or .....   | tomar una copatomar un trago         |
| to get drunk   | emborracharse                            |
| He's getting drunk.  | Se está emborrachando.                   |
| She's getting drunk.   | Se está emborrachando.                   |
| I'm a little drunk. You drive, okay? (familiar form, in the masculine)                             | Estoy un poco borracho. Tu manejas, ¿no? |
| Can you drive?   | ¿Puedes manejar?                         |
| I'm a little tipsy. / I'm a little drunk. (feminine form)  | Estoy un poco borracha.                  |
| Attempt to say, 'You're a bit drunk' (masculine) followed by 'You're a bit drunk' (feminine) ..... | Estás un poco borracho.                  |

|---|---|
| Be sure to listen for the 'o' ending in the masculine and the 'a' ending in the feminine. I'll drive, all right? You're a little drunk. (feminine) I'll drive, okay? And if you've had one too many, the next day you'll end up with a hangover. And keep in mind that almost every country in the Spanish-speaking world has a different word for 'hangover'. We'll do a couple here. But bear in mind, you'll probably have to learn this when you go to the country. In Mexican Spanish you would say ..... I have a hangover (masculine-ending in 'o') I have a hangover (feminine form-ending in 'a') to have a hangover - Colombia to have a hangover – Ecuador or Peru So there are lots of different variations. How would you say ..... I don't drink.or ..... I don't smoke. How would you say ..... to have a disagreement to have a quarrel We ended it. We broke up. to cry | Estás un poco borracha. Yo manejo, ¿está bien? Estás un poco borracha. Yo manejo, ¿está bien? Estoy crudo. Estoy cruda. tener guayabo estar con chuchaqui No tomo.No bebo. No fumo. tener un desacuerdo tener un disgusto Terminamos. Rompimos. llorar |

| I cried.   | Lloré.                    |
| He cried.  | Lloró.                    |
| She cried.   | Lloró.                    |
| We cried.  | Lloramos.                 |
| We made up. / We worked it out.  | Nos arreglamos.           |
| We made up. / We reconciled.   | Nos reconciliamos.        |
| We forgave each other.   | Nos perdonamos.           |
| We got engaged.  | Nos comprometimos.        |
| Things are moving quickly here.  |                           |
| We got married.  | Nos casamos.              |
| We bought a house.   | Compramos una casa.       |
| We got a mortgage.   | Conseguimos una hipoteca. |
| We had kids.   | Tuvimos hijos.            |
| We are happy.  | Estamos felices.          |
| Okay. Great. That moved rather quickly. Let's back up a little bit. How would we say ..... |                           |
| We're just friends.  | Sólo somos amigos.        |
| boyfriend  | novio                     |

I hope we have many more. But your door to language opportunity is just beginning to open. Keep it open by continuing to review daily and enjoying your program every day. And as we say in Spanish: ¡Buena Suerte! Good Luck! Y que Dios le Bendiga. And may God bless. Adiós, amigos. I'll see you in our next review. Language Audio BooksSpanish for Love and DatingCopyright Mark Frobose 2012, All Right Reserved End of Audio Script – Spanish for Love and Dating | una casa Tuvimos hijos. Estamos felices. Él que huye del costo huye del provecho. |
