Love Magick

Most of us want someone special to love and to love us in return and hope that our love relationship will last and deepen through the years. Even today, with a high divorce rate in our society, we can find our happy-ever-after.

Love spells ancient and modern, work by opening us to the possibility of love so that we give out the right signals - not desperation but an open heart and mind. What is more, magick opens our telepathic channels so that not only are we more receptive to love, but the person who would make us happy is drawn into our lives. Love spells are one of the oldest forms of ritual in the world. On this recording Cassandra Eason takes the best of the ancient love spells and brings them up to date, teaching you how to cast love spells in a simple but powerful step by step format.

Learn how to attract love, to increase commitment from a hesitant lover, maintain fidelity in your relationship and put the passion back into a relationship grown routine. Discover also how to mend a love quarrel and call back an old lover or one whose love has gone cold.

For this workshop you will need

Each spell has its own love symbols, but you may like to collect love symbols and keep them in a small basket or bowl in the place you practice magick. These symbols will help to draw and maintain love in your life. They might include a silver or rose quartz heart you can wear on a chain or any silver jewellery especially necklaces and pendants that as you wear them touch your throat and heart chakras where love is felt and spoken.

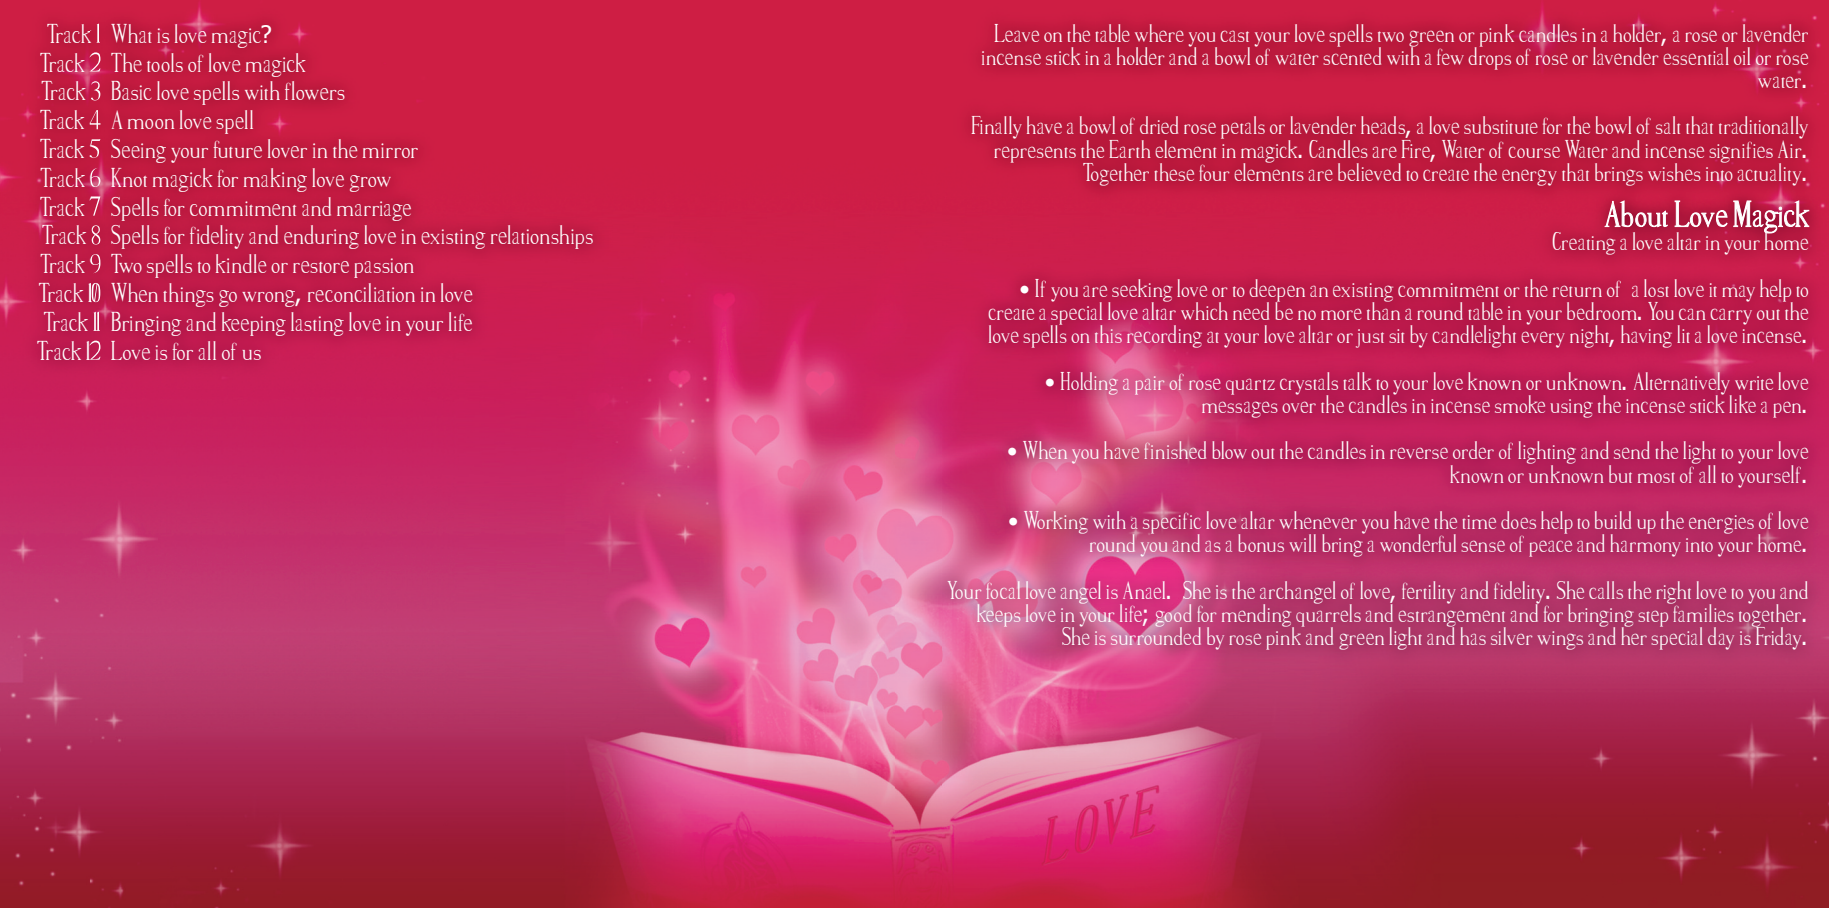

Other effective symbols include two matching silver, gold or jade rings to call and keep committed love. Find also some tiny love dolls of the kind you can buy in ethnic stores made of cloth or as worry doll sets. Have also green and pink ribbons for gentle love bindings and knot magick. You will need a mirror for one of the spells but any large household mirror will do, though you might like to keep a small silver round mirror for calling your love telepathically by candlelight. Flowers are a natural symbol of love and I have listed the meanings of those that are especially powerful in love magick. Fragrant flowers are a natural magnet for love and fidelity.

Finally have a bowl of dried rose petals or lavender heads, a love substitute for the bowl of salt that traditionally represents the Earth element in magick. Candles are Fire, Water of course Water and incense signifies Air. Together these four elements are believed to create the energy that brings wishes into actuality.

About Love Magick

Creating a love altar in your home

- If you are seeking love or to deepen an existing commitment or the return of a lost love it may help to create a special love altar which need be no more than a round table in your bedroom. You can carry out the love spells on this recording at your love altar or just sit by candlelight every night, having lit a love incense.
- Holding a pair of rose quartz crystals talk to your love known or unknown. Alternatively write love messages over the candles in incense smoke using the incense stick like a pen.
- When you have finished blow out the candles in reverse order of lighting and send the light to your love known or unknown but most of all to yourself.
- Working with a specific love altar whenever you have the time does help to build up the energies of love around you and as a bonus will bring a wonderful sense of peace and harmony into your home.

Your focal love angel is Anael. She is the archangel of love, fertility and fidelity. She calls the right love to you and keeps love in your life; good for mending quarrels and estrangement and for bringing step families together. She is surrounded by rose pink and green light and has silver wings and her special day is Friday.
