

Session One

1. Introduction to Session One
2. Relationships are important
3. My journey toward healing
4. We have the capacity to heal
5. A psychobiological perspective
6. Contingency
7. We don't heal in isolation
8. The isolating effects of trauma
9. Program overview

Session Two

10. Introduction to Session Two
11. The aspects of Secure Attachment
12. Rupture and repair
13. Making intimate relationships stronger
14. Exercise: Individuals Who Represent Secure Attachment
15. Reversing role reversal
16. Nourishing your Secure Attachment system
17. Secure Attachment skills

Session Three

18. Introduction to Session Three
19. Understanding Avoidant Attachment
20. Growing up in a dismissive environment
21. Engaging with an avoidant partner
22. Avoidant Attachment adaptations
23. Exercise: Welcome to the World
24. Implications for our intimate relationships

Session Four

25. Introduction to Session Four
26. Understanding Ambivalent Attachment
27. The emotional response of Ambivalent Attachment
28. Exercise: Building Predictability and Consistency
29. Factors leading to ambivalence
30. Regaining a strong sense of self
31. Wanting and not having
32. Exercise: Receiving One Percent More
33. Practices to support you

Session Five

34. Introduction to Session Five
35. Understanding Disorganized Attachment
36. Creating a sense of safety
37. Distinguishing between threat and safety
38. Identifying healthy boundaries
39. Boundaries in intimate relationships
40. Signals of safety
41. Moving through the freeze response
42. Additional factors leading to Disorganized Attachment

Session Six

43. Introduction to Session Six
44. Securely attached relationships
45. Insecurely attached relationships
46. New relationships and Secure Attachment
47. Warning signs in new relationships
48. Disorganized individuals in relationships
49. Attachment patterns in committed, intimate relationships
50. Disorganized Attachment in your committed relationships
51. When things don't work out and inspiration for the future

My special thanks and deep appreciation to Peter Levine, Stephen Porges, Stan Tatkin, Bessel van der Kolk, Dan Siegel, Bonnie Badenoch, Linda Graham, David Wallin, Amir Levine, and Rachel Heller, as well as so many other giants in the field, for their outstanding contributions to the understanding of healing trauma and attachment.